

Identification Services Bureau achieved Information Security Management System certification

The Identification Services Bureau (DSI)'s Information Security Management System BS7799 certification was awarded by the British Standards Institution in January 2006. With high level of proficiency in the Information Security Management System, DSI made a transition to meet the standard of ISO27001:2005 and was awarded the certification of ISO27001:2005 by the British Standards Institution on 4 May 2007.

In 2013, the British Standards Institution released a new version of standards ISO27001:2013, which raised the requirements for the system. Also, DSI successfully achieved the certification of Information Security Management System ISO27001:2013 in 2015.

DSI applied the Information Security Management System to businesses of electronic identity card, travel documents and criminal record and established a management system which is compliant with ISO27001 standards. DSI will keep on improving to attain the advanced information security management level in the world, and thus ensure that DSI can effectively cope with and manage the risk in information security, rigorously monitor the document production process and protect citizens' personal information.
